About The Composer

Carter Hintz resides in the Kansas City Metro and currently teaches choir at Grain Valley High School. Carter graduated from the University of Central Missouri with his Bachelor of Music Vocal Education. He studied with Adam Zrust, Jackson Thomas, and Stella Roden. Upon his graduation, he was awarded the Outstanding Vocal Music Education and Vocal Student Awards. For the previous few years, he has taught his own Voice, Piano, and Guitar Studio. He sings in a professional vocal ensemble in Kansas City called KC VITAs. Currently, he is earning his Master of Music Education from Florida State University while studying with Kevin Fenton. Carter spends a lot of his free time working on choral compositions, playing with his pet dog, and spending time with friends and family.

About The Piece

As I set out to create this choral work, I thought about the power, community, and inspiration choral music can give us. Music brings us together to sing for joy, love, and loss. We sing for something. Hope gives us a reason to strive each day, to fight for what is right, and to dream of the impossible. It brings us together despite our differences in age, religion, or race.

I wanted this song to bring people together to give them the opportunity to say with one voice "we will hope." I believe in the power of music to inspire us all to carry on and never lose our hope.

Text

We can lose many things in life,
We may face our share of strife.
But the one thing we can never lose:
Is our Hope.
We will hope, yes we will hope.

For in hope, we can find the strength to hold on,
Onward we go, looking toward a brand new dawn.
Against the bleakness and the shame,
Our hope will rise above the pain,
We will hope, yes we will hope.

Hope is the anchor that keeps us strong,
Guiding us through our journey all along.
So let us hold onto hope's sweet song,
Even when life's path seems long.
